Project Title: Carrying Home, a Do Ho Suh Website

I'd like to build this site as multiple pages rather than one long page, with simple navigation across the top that turns into a menu on smaller screens. Do Ho Suh's work is about home, memory, and moving between places, so I want the site to follow that path: where he started, how he moved and changed, what his work is about, and then the work itself. The Selected Works page is the heart of the site.

- Home Page/Introduction – Introduce Do Ho Suh as a South Korean artist (born 1962 in Seoul) who works in sculpture, installation, and drawing, and who is best known for re-creating homes and buildings in fabric. Set the tone around the idea of home as something you carry with you. A large image, short intro, and links into each page.
- Early Life – Growing up in Seoul, his father Suh Se-ok (a well-known Korean ink painter), his mother Min-Za Chung (a founder of a nonprofit that preserves Korean tradition), and the family home, partly modeled on a traditional palace building. This sets up why home matters so much in his work.
- Education and Moving – His path from Oriental painting at Seoul National University, to military service, to RISD in 1991 (where pattern-making classes taught him to sew and pulled him toward sculpture), to an MFA in sculpture at Yale in 1997. Then a decade in New York and the move to London in 2010. Possibly shown as a simple timeline with the cities he has lived in.
- Themes and Materials – The big ideas: home, displacement, memory, and identity. How he treats fabric as a "second skin" that turns buildings into something light and portable, and his use of materials like hanbok fabric and rice paper that point back to Korean tradition.
- Selected Works – A gallery of key pieces, each with an image, title, year, materials, and a short description. Including Seoul Home/L.A. Home (1999), High School Uni-Form (1996), Floor (1997–2000), Who Am We? (2000), the Paratrooper series, Fallen Star from the Speculation Project, 348 West 22nd Street (2011–2015), and the Hub works (2018).
- Exhibitions and Recognition – Representing Korea at the 49th Venice Biennale in 2001, major solo shows (the Whitney, the Serpentine, Tate Modern, LACMA, and the Smithsonian), museums that hold his work (MoMA, the Guggenheim, Tate Modern, and more), the Ho-Am Prize in the Arts in 2017, and a short note on how critics read his work.
- Sources – This page will just list sources, including the Wikipedia page, as well as sources for photography and any other credits that need to be provided.
